In cannabis education, it's critical that information be updated frequently. New information is coming out weekly—new data from the published medical literature, new observations from clinicians treating patients with cannabis, new discoveries from the scientific community, and new products from the cannabis industry.

Radicle Health training material is updated frequently and we are continuously adding new content to the package.

And, all of our students have access to course material for an entire year, so students can continue to benefit from all new supplemental material.

radicle: the first part of a plant embryo to emerge and the part that develops into the primary root.

We all share a common interest to build a better healthcare system and improve the lives of all people. We must apply the same clinical approach to cannabis care as we do with other treatment modalities.

Radicle Health provides the most comprehensive, self-paced, online curriculum package for nurses and other healthcare professionals who want to learn about cannabis as a treatment modality.
